Today's trivia – Who invented the first steel ski pole?

John B. Dickson invented the first patent for steel ski poles in 1933, which also featured a detachable handle and a rubber coating. In the early 1950s, he and Edward L. Scott invented the adjustable strap for ski poles, allowing skiers to adjust the length to fit their hand size. Sun Valley local Ed Scott also invented the first tapered aluminum ski pole in 1958, which replaced bamboo or steel poles and revolutionized skiing.
